Sentence: Acts 3.19-20

Turn to God so that your sins may be wiped out, so that times of refreshing may come from the presence of the Lord.

Collect:

Lord of life, by submitting to death, you conquered the grave; by being lifted upon the cross, you draw all peoples to you; by being raised from the dead, you restore to humanity all that was lost through sin: be with us in your risen power, that in word and deed we may proclaim the marvellous mystery of death and resurrection. For all praise is yours, now and throughout eternity. Amen.

1st Reading: Acts 3.12-20

¹² When Peter saw it, he addressed the people, 'You Israelites, why do you wonder at this, or why do you stare at us, as though by our own power or piety we had made him walk?' ¹³ The God of Abraham, the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob, the God of our ancestors has glorified his servant Jesus, whom you handed over and rejected in the presence of Pilate, though he had decided to release him. ¹⁴ But you rejected the Holy and Righteous One and asked to have a murderer given to you, ¹⁵ and you killed the Author of life, whom God raised from the dead. To this we are witnesses. ¹⁶ And by faith in his name, his name itself has made this man strong, whom you see and know; and the faith that is through Jesus has given him this perfect health in the presence of all of you. ¹⁷ 'And now, friends, I know that you acted in ignorance, as did also your rulers. ¹⁸ In this way God fulfilled what he had foretold through all the prophets, that his Messiah would suffer. ¹⁹ Repent therefore, and turn to God so that your sins may be wiped out, ²⁰ so that times of refreshment may come from the presence of the Lord, and that he may send the Messiah appointed for you, that is, Jesus.

Psalm 4

1. Answer me when I call, O God of my righteousness: when I was hard-pressed you set me free; be gracious to me now and hear my prayer.
2. Children of earth, how long will you turn my glory to my shame: how long will you love what is worthless and seek after lies?
3. Know that the Lord has shown me his wonderful kindness: when I call to the Lord he will hear me.
4. Tremble, and do no sin commune with your own heart upon your bed and be still.
5. Offer the sacrifices that are right: and put your trust in the Lord.
6. There are many who say 'Who will show us any good?: the light of your countenance, O Lord, has gone from us.'
7. Yet you have given my heart more gladness: that they have when their corn, wine and oil increase.
8. In peace I will lie down and sleep: for you alone, Lord, make me dwell in safety.

2nd Reading: 1 John 2.15-17; 3.1-6

is that stands right before us. We will find it even harder to integrate this into the pages of our diary this week. Perhaps it will help if I just fall silent now and let the Master have the last word.

Walking with Christ

The gospel according to St Mark is a fast-moving account of Jesus's ministry. He had no sooner finished one miracle and 'immediately' he was accosted by a person in need and then 'immediately' he gathered up friends and they were 'on the way'. There's no leisurely stroll in Mark's account. We can identify with this; but then we must also remember the times of solitude, prayer and relaxing. Jesus asleep on a cushion in a boat, at sea, during a storm. Jesus dining out with 'sinners'. Jesus the story-teller par excellence. Jesus pampered with expensive ointment to everyone's discomfort. Walking with Christ – it's a roller-coaster ride. Deep breath.

He has told you, O mortal, what is good; and what does the Lord require of you but to do justice, and to love kindness and to walk humbly with your God? Micah 6: 8
Mothers; Union in Nigeria is very active in creating opportunities for women and young girls to reach their full potential, working closely alongside the Women's Guild in each diocese. Let us pray especially for those in extreme poverty who have no chance of a leisurely stroll or solitude with Christ.

Today's Homily A fillet of Fish

In order to see today's mini fillet of fish story in its proper context I think we have to see it against the backdrop of the last supper on Holy Thursday night.

The Last Supper, was a tragic farewell meal, heavy with talk of betrayals and a broken body. Judas nicks off to do what he must, Peter will deny, a kiss betrays the Master. It was night, we are told, and the disciples were “very sorrowful”. They sing a hymn at the end, but we can hardly imagine there was much joy in their voices. For the Messiah who came eating and drinking, this is a grim repast, lightened only by the promise of a heavenly meal to come. Knowing that the band of disciples is already falling apart, Jesus prays that “they will all be one.” But, in a few hours, they will all have deserted him, run away into the darkness and he will walk alone to his death.

How would these feeble friends ever be able to sit down at the table of fellowship again and look him in the eye? There is something very final about the Last Supper — relationships are so damaged, it is hard to see how they will be restored. We sometimes make an understandable mistake when we think that the passover meal in the upper room was Jesus' last earthly meal. There is a collective Christian absent-mindedness that forgets that Jesus not only came eating and drinking before his crucifixion, but continued eating and drinking after the resurrection. Nothing speaks so powerfully of the joy of the glorious embodied life of the resurrection than a feast shared with others after the fasting of Lent and Holy Week. This mornings gospel records that the apostles found it difficult to accept Jesus's resurrected body. This account of the resurrection does not show them joyfully celebrating the risen Christ, but struggling painfully to come to terms with the event. The resurrection joy takes its time coming, and has to seep through a thick layer of human resistance and disbelief. Luke expresses this beautifully in his curious phrase “they still disbelieved for joy, and wondered”.

There is hope for all of us yet. For our own sake JESUS must have an “ordinary” resurrected body. If we hope to enjoy the life that he now lives it must be just like ours,... just as surely as his Christmass body was one just like ours. So today's story is a continuation of Christmass. God becomes flesh and bones. God comes into our midst laughing, eating and drinking: Jesus became the flesh of a boy from Galilee, and he was resurrected to the same flesh. The resurrection completes christmass by showing conclusively that Jesus was not merely wearing his body like a garment of skin, but he was, from the beginning to now, living in his body, as his body and with his body just like you and I. The risen Jesus cooks a great Barbecue on the shore of the sea of Galilee. He eats bread and fish, and breathes on the disciples. The resurrection life is not any other life, but it is this life; flourishing in its completeness and not even human violence can stomp on it and extinguish it. The life-after-death, is none other than the kind of life we experience before death. So Jesus is not resurrected to some abstract, ethereal, wispy, ghostly state of living, but to a particular historical and cultural setting. His resurrected body speaks a language, follows social rules, and interacts with named human beings. Jesus was resurrected into the ordinary life of his friends which includes us. Something other things to think about.

The last Supper was a highly organised, pre planned event in a specific place, for a specific time. Everyone knew where and when beforehand, although few knew why. The Resurrection meals are spontaneous events that spring out of specific situations: an evening meal, a fishing trip, a visit. The resurrection is an integral and inseparable part of the fabric of our everyday life here and now or as one person put it. We believe in life before death and it will surprise you with its audacity and spontaneity. The Easter event will beg us this week to see it in the created world in which we live and breathe and have our being. The wonder of this encounter with the incarnate God, is not only beautiful, but makes us beautiful. Still, like those disciples we find it difficult to understand and we are blind to who it who love the world; 16 for all that is in the world—the desire of the flesh, the desire of the eyes, the pride in riches—comes not from the Father but from the world. ¹⁷ And the world and its desire are passing away, but those who do the will of God live for ever. ¹ See what love the Father has given us, that we should be called children of God; and that is what we are. The reason the world does not know us is that it did not know him. ² Beloved, we are God's children now; what we will be has not yet been revealed. What we do know is this: when he is revealed, we will be like him, for we will see him as he is. ³ And all who have this hope in him purify themselves, just as he is pure. ⁴ Everyone who commits sin is guilty of lawlessness; sin is lawlessness. ⁵ You know that he was revealed to take away sins, and in him there is no sin. ⁶ No one who abides in him sins; no one who sins has either seen him or known him.

The Lord be with you.
And also with you

The Gospel of our Lord Jesus Christ
According to St Luke

Glory to you Lord Jesus Christ

For the Gospel of the Lord
Praise to you, Lord Jesus Christ

³⁶ While they were talking about this, Jesus himself stood among them and said to them, ‘Peace be with you.’ ³⁷ They were startled and terrified, and thought that they were seeing a ghost. ³⁸ He said to them, ‘Why are you frightened, and why do doubts arise in your hearts?’

³⁹ Look at my hands and my feet; see that it is I myself. Touch me and see; for a ghost does not have flesh and bones as you see that I have.’ ⁴⁰ And when he had said this, he showed them his hands and his feet. ⁴¹ While in their joy they were disbelieving and still wondering, he said to them, ‘Have you anything here to eat?’ ⁴² They gave him a piece of broiled fish, ⁴³ and he took it and ate in their presence. ⁴⁴ Then he said to them, ‘These are my words that I spoke to you while I was still with you—that everything written about me in the law of Moses, the prophets, and the psalms must be fulfilled.’ ⁴⁵ Then he opened their minds to understand the scriptures, ⁴⁶ and he said to them, ‘Thus it is written, that the Messiah is to suffer and to rise from the dead on the third day, ⁴⁷ and that repentance and forgiveness of sins is to be proclaimed in his name to all nations, beginning from Jerusalem. ⁴⁸ You are witnesses of these things.

A Resurrection Reflection

Mary Magdalene meets the risen Jesus
In the Gospel of John, a close friend of Jesus is tasked to bring the gospel, literally the good news of the resurrection, to the Apostles. This close friend is Mary of Magdala, the woman who cares. However, in first century Palestine, women could NOT be witnesses in any court of law. Yet it is this woman who is the most important leading witness in the history of salvation. Jesus calls her by name and He tasks her to share that intimacy and love with those living in exile. So for those of us sharing that isolation in our own “upper rooms”, Mary's announcement points to hope and new life. God our Father, You will that all people be saved and come to the knowledge of Your truth. Send workers into Your great harvest that the Gospel may be preached to every creature. May Your people, gathered together by the word of life and strengthened by the power of the sacraments, advance in the way of salvation. We ask this through Christ our Lord. Amen
